Recommendation

Serikuly Zhassulan was hired on 16 June 2021 as a Frontend Developer. Thanks to Zhassulan's independence and leadership qualities, it was easy to get used to the complexity of the work.

During his work in our company, he completed many projects of different levels. His responsibilities included site layout, implementation of design and animation. He has established himself as a punctual worker who enjoys authority in the team, completing all the assigned work efficiently and in a timely manner. Often performed more than requested. Showed high energy in work and excellent knowledge in React technology. In the process, the worker learned to use next.js and gsap.js from scratch.

Zhassulan is fluent in the Java Script language, has no language and contact barriers, and quickly adapts to any complexity of work. Therefore, I think that he can apply for this position in another company.
